LIZ BEECH: When we developed our new comment banks for each subject area, to go in line with the revised curriculum, we did suggest an area for improvement within the report. We would hope that our parents sit down with their children and discuss this area for improvement, and act upon it in succeeding years.

We also have an annual parents' afternoon, where parents are invited into the school to talk about their child's progress. An individual's subject areas would then discuss these areas for improvement with the child and their parent.
