Northern Ireland Curriculum

Reporting & Assessment

Siobhan Matthewson, Lumen Christi College

SIOBHAN MATTHEWSON: When designing the report, we looked at the revised curriculum requirements, we looked at the areas of learning, we looked at areas like Learning for Life and Work, and we redesigned our report so that it would fit in the long-term with the statutory requirements for the annual pupil report. Each area on the report gives the parents and the student feedback about their progress in terms of a comment.

We also submit grades with regard to their attitude, their progress, etc., within the classroom. And where there are examinations, we do report the percentage for those examinations. But the reports themselves, particularly that one at Key Stage 3, is totally related to the revised curriculum and to all of the areas of learning where we are required to report.
