Source A: Work-life Balance
The ability to successfully combine work, family commitments and personal life is important for the well-being of all members of a family.

The more people work, the less time they have to spend on other activities. Evidence suggests that long working hours may affect personal health and well-being. Other causes may include taking work home and an increase in workload.

In the United Kingdom, full-time workers devote 62% of their day on average to personal care (eating, sleeping, etc.) and leisure (socialising with friends and family, hobbies, games, computer and television use, etc.).

Governments can help to address the issue by encouraging supportive and flexible working practices, making it easier for parents to strike a better balance between work and home life.

Read the information carefully in Source A to answer part (a) of the question below.

(a) Using the information in the Source and your own knowledge, analyse the importance of a work-life balance.
